Bauer's band gave a very enjoyable concert last night in front of the building on Franklin avenue, advertising the excursion of the Elks to Lackawanna.

Thirty-three deaths from all causes, including two from diphtheria, one from whooping cough, and two new cases of diphtheria were reported last week to the board of health.

Otto Mayer completed his tenth day of unconsciousness at 8 o'clock last evening. He is given liquid nourishment and retains it. The doctors at the hospital have no opinion as to his chances.

The Green Ridge Loyal Temperance Legion will hold an ice cream social in the park corner New York street and Penn street this evening. The park will be well lighted. Cards out and holds us.

The bond of D. J. Williams, tax collector of Blakely borough, was filed yesterday with Clerk of the Courts Daniels and approved by the court. The amount of it is $25.00, and the sureties are Oliver David, William Adair and F. G. Hurd.

Word has been received at Wilkes-Barre that John McBride, a former resident of that city, was fatally injured in the first battle at Santiago. He died three hours after being shot. He was a member of Company B, Seventeenth Infantry.

John McGuinness, who was found on the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroad at Lackawanna Sunday morning with his skull fractured, is still at the Pittston hospital. His condition is dangerous. He has not as yet thrown any further light on the assault.

The new fire insurance firm of Swift, Hallstead & Co., which was recently organized in this city, has met with success that has been almost phenomenal, and is now among the firmly established agencies of the state. The success of the company has doubtless been largely due to the popularity of the members who have a wide acquaintance in this vicinity.

Mary Webb, of Oxford court, had a warrant issued yesterday by Alderman Howe for the arrest of Anthony Mahon and his wife on the charge of assault and battery. The people are neighbors and Mrs. Webb stated the Mahons struck her with a broom and the head of a doll. The blow from the doll's head nearly knocked out her teeth. The defendants were discharged.

Chief of Police Gurrell yesterday refused the request of John Garvey, of the South Side, that the police serve a warrant on James Ruane, who was charged by Garvey before Alderman Ruddy with having assaulted Garvey and broken his collar home. The chief's refusal was taken on account of Garvey's statement that the constable and a special officer of the Twentieth ward were afraid to serve the warrant.

Israel Weiss, was arrested yesterday on the charge of assault and battery at the instance of B. Altman. Both men are members of a society connected with the Jewish synagogue on Penn avenue. A meeting of the society was held Sunday afternoon. A dispute arose between Weiss and Altman which ended in a fight. Altman alleged that he was beaten by Weiss. The matter was amicably adjusted in the office of Alderman Howe yesterday afternoon.

HIS HEAD NEARLY SEVERED FROM BODY

JOSEPH SANTORO OF OLD FORGE FOULLY MURDERED.

Raphael Pascere, of Spring Brook, Believed to be the Murderer—Was Committed on Railroad Tracks Near the Lackawanna Station of the Bloomsburg Road—Three Small Boys Were Eye Witnesses. The Murderer Threw the Ax Into the River, and Has Escaped.

A murder of the blackest type was committed between 10 and 10:30 o'clock yesterday forenoon in the lower section of Old Forge township. Up to midnight the murderer had not been captured. Joseph Santoro, teacher of the King Humbert Italian band, of Old Forge, was almost decapitated with an ax. Raphael Pascere, of Spring Brook, is supposed to be the murderer. Jealousy is given as the cause of the crime.

It was a murder most hideous in its cold-blooded and deliberate execution. The two men had been walking together for two miles or more, and as they were passing the Bloomsburg road, stepped behind Santoro and sunk the ax twice into the back of the head, cleaving the skull in a separate place with each blow. Either blow would have caused death. There were two deep flesh wounds in the neck back in the region of the shoulder muscles. Not content with that much done the murderer caught the head of his victim after he lay stretched on the ground and hacked at his neck until the spine column was severed at the vertebra known as the atlas that supports the head. The ax sunk into the neck so far that there was nothing holding the head to the body but the front muscular tissue of the throat.

The scene of this bloody tragedy was on the north-bound track of the Bloomsburg division of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western road, one hundred and fifty yards north of Lackawanna station. Though it was in broad daylight, no eye witnesses were near, except a few boys.

AS NOT IN A HURRY. As Santoro fell he lay crosswise, face downward on the track. Pascere, so the boys who saw the crime said, was not in a hurry leaving. He stood for several seconds viewing his carnage and walked at a rapid gait up the railroad. His hands were smeared with blood, and the ax was dripping with it. They watched him until he reached the curve in the road.

Then he looked back and walked toward the river. He made a move such as if he were throwing the ax far out into the stream, and next he stooped over and hid his face with either dirt to hide the blood on them. One of the boys, Homer Davenport, who lives near the station, was sure that the man wrapped the ax in a red handkerchief when he walked away from the dead man.

As far as could be learned these boys, three in number, were the only ones who saw the crime. The names of the other two are Ernest Richardson and William Davis. They were sitting on the bank thirty feet above the railroad track. There was very little time for them to observe many of the details.

The murderer had stepped behind his victim to deliver the blow before the boys took notice of them. It was a few minutes before train time, and six or seven passengers were at Lackawanna station, but they were either in the waiting room or on the other side of the station out of the sun. The boys were too thrilled with horror to make an outcry until Pascere was out of sight.

When they did attract attention it was to bring a man passing in a carriage along the main road out of his vehicle to remove the body from the track out of the way of the passenger train which bounded along a few minutes later.

NO NEED OF A DOCTOR. Justice of the Peace Broadhead's office a few hundred yards from the crossing. He was notified, and about the time he got toward the scene of the crime, Dr. Stegner, of Rendham, happened to be passing. The doctor got out of his carriage and went down the track to examine the body. Life had passed out almost instantly after the blows were delivered, and there was no need for his services.

All these occurrences consumed a half hour's time, and gave the murderer an opportunity to make quick steps for a hiding place.

Santoro had many friends in Old Forge, and when the news spread they began to search for the murderer. This was a very difficult task. The three boys who saw the crime did not know who they were, and they described him as having on a light colored coat and a small brown hat.

Santoro boarded with Joseph Cerundo, who lives on a side street intersecting the main road about 200 yards below the Old Forge high school. The first step taken by the pursuers was to go to the boarding house and ascertain if possible with whom the murdered man had been. Mrs. Cerundo could give them no further information than that Santoro left about 6 o'clock in the morning to go to the Spring Brook for a bath, as had been his custom nearly every morning since summer set in.

Santoro was a fine musician, and was reputed to be a composer of band music. He taught music around Old Forge and Lackawanna, and was possessed of considerable leisure time.

Antonio Biancardo, a barber, and Michael Inglese, both members of the Humbert band, were the ones who set out to fasten the crime on the perpetrator. Biancardo knew that Santoro was in the habit of going toward where Pascere lives, and he and Inglese started for Pascere's house. Pascere lives along the Spring Brook a mile or more above the Moose Brook mills. He worked for the Spring Brook Water Supply company.

MRS. PASCERE CRIED. When they got to his house it was 1 o'clock. Mrs. Pascere met them at the gate. They asked her if her husband was home. She asked them what they wanted to know for, and she began to tremble like one stricken with ague and to cry aloud.

When she asked her when she saw Santoro. She said he called at the

SCHOOL PLANS FOR NEXT YEAR

WERE ADOPTED BY BOARD OF CONTROL LAST NIGHT.

Relate to Dates, Examinations, Employment of Teachers, etc., and Were Recommended in a Teachers Committee Report—Only One Change, and That Immaterial, Was Made in the Report—Captain May's Report on Adjustment of the Tax Duplicate Controversy.

A report of general interest relating to the opening of the public schools in the fall, teachers' diplomas, examinations, etc., was presented by Mr. Langman, chairman of the teachers' committee at last night's regular meeting of the board of control. Following is the report:

At a meeting of the teachers' committee held July 21, 1898, at 2:30 p. m., the following resolutions were passed and recommended to the board for adoption:

1. That the public schools be opened Monday, September 13.

2. That the school year be fixed as the time for the second examination of grammar A pupils; place, high school.

3. That the grammar A certificate be issued to the superintendent and the principals of grammar A pupils.

4. That hereafter all principals shall hold a monthly meeting of their teachers or principal program of their discipline and work of the syllabus.

5. That every teacher shall have a written copy of the program of her class, work available in a convenient place for the superintendent and substitutes.

6. That hereafter all grammar A grades shall consist of not less than thirty pupils.

7. That hereafter no teacher shall be eligible with six years' experience only. Applicants must have high school diploma and training diploma or high school and normal diploma, or a normal school diploma, or a diploma from a college or university, or a diploma from a school that the rule making six years' experience equivalent to a certificate or diploma is hereby revoked.

WILL BE PROMOTED. 8. That all pupils who have been in two years in any one grade shall be promoted whether they pass the final examination or not.

9. That all the teachers who taught last year be reappointed subject to transfers or removal.

10. That Mr. Derman be instructed to continue his music work once in two weeks for the benefit of the most advanced pupils, who are to be given an examination and the teachers who pass that examination be allowed to discontinue their work in music.

Mr. Barker objected to Clause 7. He contended that many applications or appointments as teachers are received from persons not of the most large cities, who are perfectly qualified though they have had but a few years' experience. Mr. Barker referred to some teachers who were teaching without any diplomas or certificates whatsoever. President Francis asked Mr. Barker if the latter had been under stood right. Mr. Barker replied affirmatively but qualified his statement by adding that he was quite certain he was correct in his statement.

Mr. May objected to Clause 8. Superintendent Howell, at whose suggestion the clause was inserted, was summoned from his office and said the rule was necessary inasmuch as a pupil who failed to pass from a grade after two years study showed a lack of capacity requiring special provision.

THE EXPLANATION. Mr. May asked why such pupils were not expelled. Superintendent Howell explained that the law would not permit it, and he would like to remove a pupil for lack of mental power.

On motion of Mr. Jennings Clause 2 was stricken out because of its conflict with action taken in reference to the date at a previous meeting.

The report was adopted as read, Clause 2 excepted.

Following is a part of the report of the finance committee as presented by its chairman, Captain May:

In the matter of the duplicates the finance committee has recommended to the president of the board and the chairman of the finance committee who are quickly collecting taxes, to have the amounts entered in the assessment books of the city treasurer, and the copies of the assessment books to be made subsequently and at the convenience of the board. We are glad to report that the amounts have been entered in the assessment books in the city treasurer and he can now collect the taxes.

"The analysis of the expenditures for various purposes during the last year is now in progress. We hope to be able to make a complete and interesting report of this matter at the next meeting of the board."

MR. DAVIS' MOTION. Mr. Davis offered a motion and Mr. Phillips seconded it that new applicants for positions as teachers in the high school undergo an examination in future. Mr. Gibbons' amendment that the motion be referred to the high and training school committee was accepted and it was referred. The old corps of High school teachers was re-appointed at a previous meeting.

Superintendent Howell's recommendations of the number and kind of books for use during the next school year were referred to the text book committee. The secretary was directed to advertise for proposals to furnish school supplies during the ensuing school year.

Mr. Jennings' motion prevailed providing that grammar A pupils whose standing during the last school year and whose average on the examinations for admission to the high school jointly equal 70 shall be admitted to the high school.

The pay roll of officers and janitors for the month ending July 25, was approved.

The resignation of Mrs. Eliza J. Whelan, formerly Miss McNally, a teacher in No. 23 school, was accepted.

The finance committee was given power to borrow money to pay the last pay roll and bills approved.

The appointment of teachers are reported in another column.
